of religion not being "affecting" subjects without a "substantial" connection with the fundamental truths of Christianity. When the State lays no prohibition upon her agents in referring to, or in assuming, the fundamental truths of the Divine existence and a future life, then the moral tone of the school will improve, and the children will be able to receive a large measure of the religious instruction which is due to each individual case. It will also be more dependent upon the views and feeling of the teacher. But, if the system is thoroughly and consistently secular, and the law of the land prohibits any reference to the sanctions of religion, or prohibits these sanctions from being made dependent upon the views and feeling of the teacher, the inevitable effect upon the pupil would be the feeling that he need not be troubled himself about his duty to God, or take into consideration a future state of existence, if the motive of doing good which is essentially proper to the Christian religion, to avoid pain, to obtain pleasure, to maintain respectability, to attain happiness, to acquire fame—the natural conclusion will be that such motives are sufficient for the guidance of life. If the motives drawn from the love of God, and the love of man, and the love of self, but defence be imposed upon the teacher with respect to them, then the child will, at best, see it as not to heed—carry out secularist principles.

when not the slightest reproach is cast upon the teacher or pupil because he belongs to a branch of the Christian or Christian Church, such a system cannot be antagonistic to the true religious faith. We should not expect any direct attacks to be made upon religion in our Public schools, even though the teachers are not religious by-and-by, nor all at once, but gradually and most insidiously. Such a system injures not by direct statement, but by the spirit it begets, viz., that of looking at everything from a merely secular standpoint, and regarding the religious as a mere accident, or, at best, as a mere hindrance to the progress of the human mind. Christ, or man's destiny for the future. MANY people seem to imagine that, when the ruler: the ruler of the system is irreligious, and of all kinds: cannot be anything else. It is a matter of sincere congratulation that the Public school system which now obtains in New South Wales is not liable to these defects, and it is earnestly to be hoped that the system will be let alone, and is most: every legitimate way. Let change be grand and noble: the direction of Secularism would be a thoroughly retrograde movement, and productive of the worst results. Why should there be change of this sort? What the "GREAT LIVER REMEDY" of the nineteenth century. One trial will convince the most sceptical of the truth of this assertion, and the extensive sale they command all over the world stamps them the "Disinfectant" for our digestive tract. Free from all noxious drugs, viz., Potassium, Sodium, Lead, Mercury, etc., they are perfectly safe.

It is the only preparation that does not weaken; requiring no change of diet, or abstinence from the bath, but quickly assists nature to restore all the vital functions to their healthy state, thus proving them to be the best medicine ever introduced in tropical climates.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
(Copy.)
Messrs. JOHN BRISMAED and SONS, International Exhibition, Sydney.
Gentlemen, - I have much pleasure in being able to add my testimony to the many valuable testimonials you already have, and to state that, after trying and purchasing your "London Gram-mone" being exhibited to the most severe tests, I found it to over in a perfect manner that I conscientiously state that it is superior to any domestic gramophone ever seen - its remarkable clarity, sweetness, and power being greatly enhanced by the true sensitiveness of its action, which produces a tone which is similar to the faintest and most trying strains. It is simply superb.
